Inuit Earth Sciences Student Assistance Program

Nunavut Tunngavik Incorporated (NTI) is now accepting applications for financial assistance under the Inuit Earth Sciences Student Assistance Program.

The Program, which provides financial and other support to students pursuing a career in the Earth Sciences and related fields, is delivered through NTI's Resource Revenue Fund. This Fund allows NTI to deliver directly to Inuit a range of benefits and opportunities relating to lands and resources. The Fund is financed from mineral resource revenue generated through NTI's Department of Lands and Resources.

If you are a beneficiary of the Nunavut Land Claims Agreement and currently enrolled in a university Science or Engineering degree program in one of the Earth Sciences, you may be eligible for financial assistance, and are encouraged to apply. NTI is encouraging specialization in one of the following fields related to lands and resources: Geology, Geography, Geophysics, Geochemistry, Environmental Science, Mining, Metallurgy, and related fields.
